Wall Street High Flying
Wealth, Study Yourself
The Great Umberto
New York's Museum

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THREE foreign fliers visited Wall Street's stock exchange yesterday and congratulated the bulls on an endurance flight that has lasted for months.

The [illegible] sad and prolonged crash was viewed with sympathy.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will give medals to six fliers, three recently arrived, the Frenchmen, Costes and [illegible] the able Italian, Nobile.

He might add one medal for Miss Junkers, daughter of the man that made the wonderful flying airplane, responsible for the trip's success.

Through all the excitement she has kept out of the limelight, and that deserves a medal.

• • •

GEN. YOURIEFF, related to Peter the Great, fought under the czar against Japan, owned vast estates covering [illegible] acres, and a big fortune. Bolsheviki has them now and he is dead.

• • •

RICH Americans learn from Yourieff that everything depends on KEEPING THE PEOPLE SATISFIED. Wealth, titles, power and money are temporary. All the czars could not protect Yourieff in his possessions once the people were thoroughly dissatisfied and [illegible].

Moral: Keep the people happy.

ITALY'S heavyweight champion is now 22 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 255 pounds. Boxing two and a half years, each of his ten opponents kindly became unconscious in four rounds or less.

THIS descendant of Roman gladiators, Umberto Tolini, is artistic, plays several musical instruments and could lecture on Verdi. He seems to be the natural, physical and mental opponent for Tunney.

TOLINI could interest local talent by offering to revive the old Roman boxing with the cestus, a glove of heavy thongs loaded with iron or bronze, making it unnecessary for the referee to count.

A MUSEUM of the city of New York, in Fifth-av, opposite Central Park, is assured by gifts of $250,000 cash from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and James Speyer; $200,000 from Edward S. Harkness, and other generous gifts.

New York's museum will record the city's history from earliest times, stimulating civic enthusiasm. Every great city should have a museum.

Thanks from New York are especially due to James Speyer, who originated and developed the idea. Every citizen should be urged to contribute.

NEW records for automobile building in April. Eddsel Ford, president of the Ford Co., reports daily production of new cars now of 3,300 and expects to produce 5,000 cars a day in July. The Fords have unfilled orders for [illegible] cars.

President Sloan's figures show that General Motors produced in April more than [illegible] Chevrolet cars alone, 22,000 more than in April a year ago. The country is prosperous and will need 5,000,000 new cars a year indefinitely.

AUTOMOBILES lead in Detroit. The bootleg business is Detroit's second industry, with $215,000,000 a year. Government used to take a few hundred millions yearly from beer and whisky properly made. Now bootleggers take thousands of millions a year for poisonous whisky and use the proceeds to finance our crime wave. Not much of an improvement.

THIS side of the Mexican border, between San Diego and Tia Juana, a steel lockup is used for sobering-up purposes. Men violently drunk, coming north, are kept in the steel lockup until sober.

Authorities don't like to lock drunken women with the drunken men and request construction of a "stockade ten feet high at the international border in which women returning from Tia Juana can be put until they cool off."

Why not fingerprint and photograph ladies and gentlemen returning drunk from their little trips and deprive them of passports for a while?

Congressman Proposes Great Cross Country Highway

Washington, May 2—A great highway, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is contemplated under a bill placed before Congress by Representative Rathbone, Republican of Illinois.

Proposing creation of a commission to investigate the project and report to Congress, Rathbone declared that the proposed transcontinental highway is the logical result of the country's growth.

"This great highway would be a band across the continent," which would promote the unity of all sections of the country," said Rathbone.

KENTON TELEPHONE VALUATION IS FIXED

Utilities Commission Overrules Protests in Setting $443,690.56 as Rate Worth

Columbus, May 2 — The State Utilities Commission, it was stated today, overruling all protests, fixed $443,690.56 as its final and permanent valuation of the properties of the Kenton Telephone Co. in connection with the company's application for approval of a new schedule of increased rates.

Under Ohio law, Kenton city officials, officers of the telephone company and any other protestants have 30 days, dating from yesterday, in which to file protests against these final figures and to apply to the commission for a rehearing, it was stated.

If no such application, or protest, is filed within the 30-day period, the commission, it was said, will either approve the company's new rate schedule or determine other rates which the commission deems reasonable and just. In the event that an application for rehearing is filed and rejected by the commission, an additional 30 days are allowed by law for an appeal to the Ohio supreme court for a reversal of the commission's decree.

In recent forecasts of the appointment, giving lists of attorneys mentioned for the place, Fred W. Warner and Hoke Donithen of this city were named as prospects.

CAPITAL TURNS OUT TO GREET OCEAN FLIERS

Lindbergh Introduced to European Airmen as Crowds Acclaim Quartet

BULLETIN

Washington, May 2—The German-Irish fliers would like to fly their plane Bremen back across the Atlantic and will do so if it is at all possible, Maj. James Fitzmaurice declared here today.

No definite decision has been made, he said, because so many factors are involved in arranging the return flight.

• • •

Washington, May 2—The daring trio of two Germans and an Irishman who wrote a new and brilliant page in aeronautical history by spanning the Atlantic in the first east-to-west crossing came to Washington today and received the plaudits of the government and the populace for their stirring achievement.

The capital has no towering sky-scrapers from which to shower down storms of ticker-tape upon its lionized visitors, no hysterical millions to scream a welcome and mob them, but every official from President Coolidge down to the admiring flappers in the government departments joined today in unfolding panorama of official recognition and high praise for the heroic crew of the Bremen.

A perfect May day was provided for the government's welcome to Baron Von [illegible] Capt. [illegible] Maj. James Fitzmaurice—in marked contrast to the gloomy and depressing rain-swept day last week when they slipped into the capital incognito to pay tribute to an heroic American who died in their service, Floyd Bennett.

Welcomed by Kellogg

A warm, friendly sun beat down on Bolling Field where the official ceremonies began at 10 o'clock, with Secretary of State Kellogg formally welcoming the visitors in the name of the government.

"It is with feeling of the deepest admiration for your magnificent exploit that I welcome you today on behalf of the government and people of this country," said Kellogg. "Your task was indeed one to test the power of human endurance, and its successful accomplishment has stirred the entire nation.

"You have marked another mile-

HISTORY OF BONDS ON SENATE BOOKS

Sinclair Reveals Distribution of Paper and Oil Magnate's Gifts

Washington, May 2—The history of the mysterious Continental Trading Co. and the division of its $3,000,000 Liberty Bond "slush fund" was a matter of public record today as the Senate Oil Committee prepared to close its bond inquiry and launch a new investigation into the Salt Creek (Wyoming) oil field leases.

The Senate inquiry has revealed that Harry F. Sinclair, Robert W. Stewart, James E. O'Neill and Henry M. Blackmer shared almost equally in the distribution of Continental bonds. Their shares were Sinclair, $757,000; Stewart, $759,000; O'Neill $737,000; Blackmer, $763,000. The remainder of the $3,080,000—or $261,000—went to Henry Smith Osler, president of the Continental and its "paymaster."

Sinclair revealed in his testimony that he was very liberal with his share of the Continental bonds. He told of giving $233,000 to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in a ranch deal; $260,000 to the Republican National Committee, of which $100,000 was later repaid, and of "lending" $100,000 personally to Will H. Hays, former Republican national chairman, now movie czar. All these transactions were in Continental bonds, the committee revealed, although Sinclair said he didn't know it at the time, because he had so many bonds.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST BISHOP AT CONFERENCE

McConnell of Pittsbugh Accused of Maladministration and Violations

Kansas City, Mo., May 2—Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Pittsburgh area has been formally charged with immorality and with maladministration, it was revealed at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church today, in quadrennial session here.

The maladministration charges are in connection with two cases submitted to the annual Pennsylvania area conference last year, and the charge of immorality is based on Bishop McConnell's alleged indorsement of the theory of evolution published by the American Civil Liberties Union in January, 1927.

The charges were filed by Rev. George A. Cooke of Wilmington, Del., and Louisville, Pa.

The immorality charge deals entirely with violations of the church dogma and doctrines, and contains no element of moral turpitude.

32 STORES IN CO-OPERATIVE SYSTEM HERE

Grocers and Meat Dealers Organize in Move To Lower Prices

ADOPT TRADE NAME

All Store-Room Fronts To Be Painted Red; Work Now Under Way

Completion of an organization in which individual grocers and meat dealers of the city have banded together in order to obtain better prices on wholesale purchases and to enable them to sell to the public at a lower price, was announced today.

The organization will be known as the Retail Grocers' and Meat Dealers' Association. Its membership consists of 32 grocers and meat dealers of the city.

By buying as a group rather than as individuals, members of the association will be able to obtain better prices from jobbers and as a result will be able to give the public the benefit of the saving, it is pointed out by officers of the association. The investment of the individual merchant will also be lower as he will not need to buy in as large quantities as he previously did in order to obtain lower prices from the wholesaler. By combining orders of all merchants in the association the buying power of the individual will be increased still further, it was stated.

Co-operative Program

Co-operative buying and co-operative advertising is the keynote of the association's program.

The trade-name of the organization will be "Serv-U-Well Markets." This motto together with the name of the owner, will be painted on the window of each store in the association. The various stores, it is pointed out, will not lose their identity in the association but will still be known by their present names.

All store fronts are to be painted red. Work on the exterior decorations has already been started and work on the window mottos is expected to start next week.

The Serv-U-Well Markets will adopt a standard retail price for various

"BIG BILL" HAYWOOD

BIG BILL HAYWOOD IS SINKING RAPIDLY

Suffers Paralytic Stroke in Kremlin Hospital at Moscow

Moscow, May 2—William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, former Chicago leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, who has been seriously ill in the Kremlin Hospital, suffered a paralytic stroke last night and was sinking rapidly today.

The attending physicians said that Haywood could not recover. He was so low during the night that the doctors said it was a miracle he survived. This morning he seemed slightly better and the morning bulletin referred to his condition as "somewhat improved."

The patient's heart was so weak that stimulants had to be administered, not even his wife was allowed at the bedside.

Haywood has long suffered from diabetes, but the symptoms yielded to insulin treatment. His heart became affected and general weakness developed. Haywood is 59 years old. He came to Soviet Russia about eight years ago to escape arrest in the United States. He was given a small post by the Soviet Government in recognition of his efforts in behalf of bolshevism.

FOUND NOT GUILTY IN BURGLARY CASE

Prospect Man Released Following Hearing in Municipal Court

Curtis Shepherd of Prospect, arrested a week ago on a charge of having broken into the office of the Marion County Lumber Co., and who pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin, was found not guilty by Judge Martin yesterday afternoon and the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Testimony given by two witnesses who related alleged conversations with Shepherd regarding the burglary was discounted by the court.

In handing down his decision, the court pointed out the testimony was only circumstantial and hearsay, and was not sufficient to justify Shepherd being held to the grand jury.

Shephard was first arrested several weeks ago but was later released. He was again arrested last week on the advise of Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann, who had conducted an investigation.

Another man was also arrested in connection with the robbery at the time of Shepherd's first arrest but no charge was placed against him and he was later released.

The plane was making a slow turn toward the field flying at an altitude of 500 feet when it went into a tail-spin and plunged earthward.

FIRST BALLOT NOMINATION BACKERS' BOAST

New York Governor Sweeps Through California to Decisive Victory

GAINS DRY SECTION

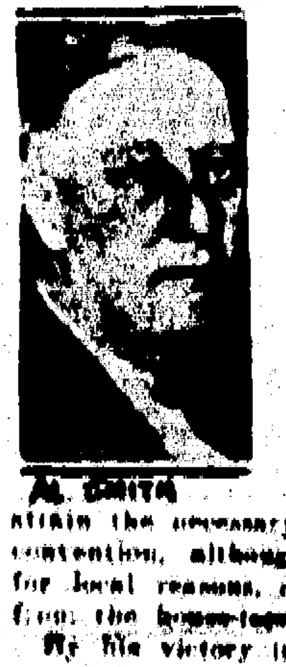
Gets Vote of 2 to 1 Over Reed and Walsh in Democratic Primary

BULLETIN

San Francisco, May 2—Returns coming in from added precincts throughout California today continued to emphasize the victory of Gov. Alfred E. Smith over Senator James A. Reed and Thomas J. Walsh in California's Democratic preferential primary. Out of 8,753 precincts tabulation of the votes in 6,680 gave Smith a plurality of 98,515 ballots over his two opponents for the Democratic presidential nomination.

• • •

Washington, May 2—Almost the last faint chance that Al Smith "can be stopped" at Houston next month flickered out today in the wake of the California primary, which saw the New York governor score a smashing victory over his chief rivals for the Democratic nomination.



AL SMITH

The governor's friends were jubilantly proclaiming today that "Al is in," and even the ultra-dry and anti-Tammany bitter-enders were disposed to concede it. There is scarcely a Democratic leader in Washington today who now believes that Governor Smith will fail to attain the necessary two-thirds of the convention, although some of them, for local reasons, are not shouting it from the house-tops.

By his victory in California, which was hailed as the big test of Smith's appeal in the west, the governor has now run his total of favorable and committed delegates to approximately 590. This is out of a total of 658 delegates thus far selected, so that Smith is running, on a percentage basis, far in excess of the required two-thirds. And of the 158 delegates chosen who are not definitely committed to Smith, it is known that some will vote for him after paying their respects to favorite sons.

Predict First Ballot

Smith lieutenants in Washington were predicting today that he will be nominated on the first ballot. Certainly if the governor can maintain the dizzy pace he has set thus far, among the 442 delegates still to be selected, their predictions will be borne out. Smith needs roughly about 200 delegates yet, and his friends say there will be no difficulty in obtaining them.

While appreciating the numerical value of California's 26 delegates, it was not merely the acquisition of this much arithmetical strength that most impressed the governor's supporters today. What they dwelt most heavily upon was the decisive repudiation of theory persistently emphasized by the opposition that "Smith has no appeal in the west," because of his wet views and his Tammany affiliation.

CLUB PLANTS TREE ON MEMORIAL SITE

Local Organization Takes Lead in Contributing to Landscaping

The Buckeye Club of Marion, yesterday afternoon planted a buckeye tree on the west section of the Harding Memorial plot. This part of the memorial grounds, it was stated, will later be planted with a large number of buckeye trees.

A number of organizations and individuals have offered to give growing trees that could be transplanted to the Memorial grounds, Hoke Donithen, chairman of the Harding Memorial Association executive committee, said today. Until recently, however, it had not been possible to accept any of these offers, due to the fact that landscaping plans were not complete.

The landscaping has now progressed to a point where the association can handle nursery or growing trees that conform with landscaping plans in their area type, Mr. Donithen said. Growing trees will be transplanted by the association.

School Essay Contest to Be Held As Advance Feature of Famous Aviator's Visit

Free Tickets to Chamberlin Lecture Will Be Awards in Competition Open to Pupils of Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Grades

Permission to sponsor an essay contest in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of the Marion schools as a part of the program in bringing Clarence D. Chamberlin, world famous aviator, to the city, has been granted by Jesse H. Mason, superintendent of schools, to the Junior Chamber of Commerce airport committee, according to an announcement made today by Charles Whysall, chairman of the committee.

The essays are to concern the life and recent activities of Chamberlin and will be written from information supplied by the airport committee. Prizes for the best essays will be complimentary tickets to the Chamberlin lecture which will be given at the Chautauqua pavilion on the night of May 10. According to plans announced today the essay will be graded by the teacher under whose direction it was written.

Plans for Contest

The two students writing the best essays in each room occupied by pupils of the three grades will be given free admission to the lecture. Whysall plans to have the necessary information in the hands of the teachers in time for pupils to start on the preparation of their essays Thursday.

As a part of Chamberlin's program during his visit to Marion the aviator will speak before students of Central Junior and Mt. Vernon Junior High Schools. If seating space can be provided, winners of the essay contest will also be invited to attend the lecture at Central Junior.

Whysall said today that Harding Area Boy Scouts would be invited to form an honor guard for the Chamberlin airplane and an escort for the flier.

The airport committee is $170 short of underwriting the $1,000 guaranty necessary to secure Chamberlin's appearance here, Whysall said today.

Another Guiding Sign

Another building has been added to the list of those to be painted with the name of the city as a guide to aviators. The Columbus, Marion and Bucyrus railway was given permission to mark the roof of its barn on N. Main-st.

A meeting of the airport committee is scheduled for tonight in the office of Attorney C. H. Conley. The regular monthly meeting of the Junior Chamber will be held Thursday night in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Hearing of Suspended Kenton Police Chief Set for Saturday

DATE SET BY COMMISSION

Sheldon Plans Determined Fight To Retain Official Position

Kenton, May 2—Charges of immorality and gross neglect of duty preferred against Oliver D. Sheldon, chief of the Kenton police, resulting in his suspension Tuesday by Mayor W. J. Ochs, will be heard by the civil service commission Saturday morning, it was announced today.

The suspended chief demanded a commission hearing soon after the charges made by P. J. Vanatta, former night patrolman, were made public. Flatly denying the allegations, Sheldon declared efforts to oust him are the result of spite work on the part of his accuser, who was under fire last year and later resigned from the force.

Pending hearing of the case Mayor Ochs was expected today to name an acting chief. No intimation has been given as to whom he might select for the post.

Plans Hard Fight

With the hiring of special counsel, the suspended chief intimated last night that he would bitterly contest the charges in an effort to retain his post as chief, which he has held since 1920.

In his list of charges, Vanatta claims the chief "failed, neglected and refused to enforce the laws and knowingly permitted gambling houses and places of business where intoxicating liquors are sold open and notoriously to operate in the city."

He further alleges the chief "failed and refused to co-operate with state, county and city officials in the enforcement of liquor laws," and that he spent large portions of his time during hours of duty in loafing about cigar stores and poolrooms to the neglect of his duties.

Continuing, former patrolman Vanatta charges that "Sheldon has associated with women of questionable character and has visited houses of assignation."

Pair of Pants, Dismissal Stir Row in Naval Academy

WASHINGTON, May 2—Should a young man's dream of a proud career as an officer of Uncle Sam's Navy be forever blasted because he borrowed a pair of pants from a friend?

The lords of the Navy say it should—and refuse to reinstate Larry Cardwell of Washington, D. C. in the Annapolis Naval Academy.

The House Military Affairs Committee takes a different view.

And the issue has been placed before Congress.

The facts are generally agreed upon, according to the report of the Naval Affairs Committee today on a bill to reinstate Cardwell. As expressed by Representative Burdick, Republican of Rhode Island, they are:

Cardwell rushing to inspection, found he had no freshly pressed suit. In dismay he rushed to the room of Midshipman Beyerly and grabbed a pair of trousers. He continued in search of a coat, and went into Midshipman Thompson's room, where he got another pair of trousers and a coat.

Both cadets were absent at the time. One of them returned, missed his suit and complained. The clothes were found in Cardwell's room. He made no effort to conceal them or remove identifying marks.

The midshipmen whose clothes were taken say they are certain Cardwell only borrowed the clothes. The Navy Department agrees to this.

But Cardwell was dismissed and Secretary Wilbur and ranking admirals sustained it.

IN YOUR GARDEN

GIANTS AMONG CALENDULAS

OF plants of recent introduction, one of the finest is the giant Ball calendula, a gorgeous orange type of the favorite old pot marigold. There is now a pure yellow Ball calendula equally as fine as the original brilliant orange. They are easily twice the size of the old Meteor previous to the Ball, the finest of the calendulas.

The Ball calendula came into fame as a greenhouse plant, being the result of selection under greenhouse culture. An exceptionally large calendula appeared among a batch of seedlings of the old Meteor type. It was so much larger and more vigorous than the type that seed was saved. It was found that a majority of the seedlings reproduced the giant size of the parent plant. By careful selection over a few seasons, rouging the stock—destroying all not true to type—the present popular strain of giant calendulas was developed and is now sold in England as well as the United States as the finest type of this popular annual.

The calendula has become even more common as a greenhouse plant for winter cut flowers than as a garden annual although it grows as easily as any flower that can be planted, is very hardy, and self-sows if allowed to drop its seed in the garden. It is the "marygolde" of Shakespeare.

The development of the giant type was the result of good culture and rich fare. Give the Ball calendulas in the garden the richest soil you have. In poor soil they will not develop into anything like the magnificent blooms they display in the greenhouse but will be better than the old strains. With rich soil, plenty of moisture and thorough cultivation any gardener can raise a liberal supply of these beautiful marigolds for cutting as well as for a brilliant patch of color in the garden.

Give the Ball marigolds a foot of room each day in the garden. Seed may be sown in the open ground at any time now. It germinates quickly. The seed is singular looking, being crescent shaped and rough. It is large enough to sow thinly without difficulty and thus avoid complications when it comes transplanting time. It is easy to sow it where it is to remain by spacing the seeds.

TEN DEAD IN POLAND AFTER MAY RIOTS

Nearly 50,000 Socialists and Communists Take Part in Fighting

Warsaw, May 2—Ten persons are dead here today, others are dying and more than 100 are suffering from wounds as a result of the worst May Day rioting in the history of Poland.

Nearly 50,000 Socialists and Communists took part in violent street fighting. Panic reigned over a large section of the city as the rival factions fired upon each other.

Theater Square was strewn with the bodies of dead and wounded for two hours.

Troops and police finally restored order. Heavy damage was done to property.

A group of Communists, who pretended to be workmen, edged their way into the Socialist crowd and began to make speeches. Fighting broke out at once. The Socialists claim that the Communists opened fire upon the Socialist procession.

DOCTOR'S HOME REMEDY GIVES SPEEDY RELIEF!

40 Year Old Standard Remedy Ends Six Months of Suffering From Indigestion!

Wm. Peck, of Ohio, writes as follows: "For six or seven months I have suffered from indigestion. After eating, I would bloat up and have a heavy feeling just like a knot in my stomach. I used two boxes of Dr. Jackson's Digestive and Liver Powder and have had no trouble since. Am feeling fine now. I cheerfully recommend this remedy to anyone suffering from stomach trouble."

For 40 years Dr. Jackson's Digestive and Liver Powder has been successful in relieving Gas, Bloating, Sourness, Indigestion and other forms of stomach disorder. It is sold by most druggists in boxes at 60c and $1.00. It is safe and pleasant to take. Write for big free sample. The Jackson Medicine Company, Dept. T, Zanesville, Ohio.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effect.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.—Adv.

Recreation Heads Seek One Team For Commercial Loop

FOUR LEAGUES ARE FORMED THIS YEAR WITH 34 MEMBERS

Season Will Open Monday; Church Games Slated for First Two Days

BY [illegible]
Sports Editor, The Star

With one vacancy to be filled in the Commercial League, the Marion Recreation ball season will get under way next Monday night when the Church League No. 2 plays the opening games.

When the entry list was closed last night, 33 teams had entered the league. Members of the recreation ball commission voted to secure one more team before the opening of the season in order that no blanks will exist this year.

Schedules for the season will be drawn up tonight by F. O. Rudolph, secretary of the commission. These will be announced Thursday.

Teams Lower

The entry list fell shy of last year's mark with only 34 teams expected to play. But few changes were made in the Sunday School and Industrial Leagues while the Commercial teams will be combined with the Association playing under the former name.

As a result of only [illegible] leagues, Church League games will be played on two nights—Monday and Tuesday—while the Industrial will play Thursday and the Commercial on Friday.

However, the unexpected falling off of teams is expected to aid in the arrangement of games this year. It will be possible for all teams to use the best diamonds.

According to present plans the Commercial League will be the largest with 10 teams enrolled. The others will be composed of eight teams.

The Leagues

The Sunday School Leagues will be composed of the following aggregations:

No. 1—First Presbyterian, Wesley, Calvary, St. Mary's, Central Christian No. 1, Epworth Seniors and Trinity.

No. 2—Central Christian No. 2; Forest Lawn, Lee Street, Lutheran, United Brethren, First Presbyterian No. 2; Epworth Juniors and First Reformed.

In the Industrial and Commercial Leagues all places have been assigned but one in each. The proposed line-ups are: Industrial—Fairfield, Huber, Osgood, Marmon Club, C. D. & M., Excavator, Erie Roundhouse.

Commercial—Kapps, K. of P., Star, Kiwanis, Isaly Dairy, Eagles, Erie Office, Erie Switchmen, Marmon A. A.

The two open positions will be given to the Hocking Valley and the team that has not yet been named. In case an old Industrial League team is selected, the Hocking nine will play in the Commercial. If this is not the case the railroaders will be assigned to the Industrial loop.

WILL DEFEND NATIONAL BALLOON TITLE MAY 30

Akron, May 2—Wade T. Van Orman and W. T. Morton will defend their national balloon racing championship in Pittsburgh May 30. The Goodyear Co. announced today that the two veteran balloonists will pilot its entry in the national race. Van Orman won the international race in 1926.

BRITISH HOPING FOR OPEN GOLF VICTORY

Americans Strong as Ever; Defeat of Hagen Builds Up Chances

London, May 2—(AP) England and Scotland are anxiously hoping for a British victory in the Open Golf Championship which will be played at Sandwich on May 7 and 8. Britain has had only one victory in that tournament since the war. That was in 1923 when the championship was won by Arthur Havers.

It is true that, during the postwar period, victory has been achieved by Jock Hutchison and Jim Barnes—players of British birth and breeding—but only once in that time has a home-playing golfer carried off the title.

British golfers do not overlook the fact that this year's contingent from the United States will be about as strong as ever, although the decisive defeat of Walter Hagen by Archie Compston at Moor Park has lessened the chances of the Yankees in the opinion of British experts. In addition to Hagen there will be Tommy Armour, R. A. Cruickshank, Jim Barnes and MacDonald Smith.

Compston is the new star that has arisen on the British golf horizon and if he competes at Sandwich he will undoubtedly prove a powerful contender for the invading players.

In addition to Compston, Abe Mitchell and George Duncan are the two British hopes. Mitchell is playing better than he ever did in his life. On his practice form he is equal to the best. But Compston and Duncan are also in top form.

WOODS and WATERS by HOMER BOW

BASS

MONDAY was the last day of the bass season in the state of Ohio until June 16.

Laws to protect the bass from molestation during a period generally supposed to be that in which they spawn, are responsible for this halt in the taking of the king of Ohio's game fish.

Just as soon as the waters become a few degrees warmer, from the heated efforts of a spring sun, the eggs within the female will begin to develop and will continue to do so until the time comes to deposit them on the nests.

Male fish will soon begin to select spots for the building of the nest and will "fan" a spot on the gravel clear of all sediment and debris. When the job is nearly completed, he will search for the female, escort her to the nest where she will deposit the eggs and then deposit sperm on the mass and fertilize them. The female's job is over and she will be on her way.

The male then begins his vigil over the mass of embryo bass. He must keep up a constant fanning of his tail or sediment in suspension in the water will settle on the nest and smother the eggs. Then, too, there are many enemies which would attack and destroy the nest and its contents. [illegible] fish rank among spawn eaters, as do water dogs, or mud puppies as they are sometimes called. The bass will drive away most offenders.

During this period the male bass does not eat and would perhaps not take a bait if presented to him for any other reason than to remove it from the proximity of the nest. A [illegible] across the [illegible] would be [illegible] for defensive reasons. The bass offers an excellent, although unfair, target at this time.

[illegible] the eggs will hatch [illegible] the young bass will rise from the nest to the warm surface [illegible]. After a few days the [illegible] of Father Bass [illegible] his own [illegible] youngsters [illegible]. They [illegible] endangered by other [illegible].

CALVARY WINS

[illegible] Team Blanked By Gruber in Close Fray

The [illegible] were blanked last night by Gruber as the Calvary Evangelicals won 4 to 0 in a recreation ball game played at Central Junior High school. The winning pitcher allowed but three hits while his team mates touched [illegible] for eight singles.

Huber will face Calvary at Central Friday night.

Tie Game

Erie and the Gardner [illegible] teams last night battled to a 7 to 7 tie after nine long innings.

Practice Friday

Players trying out for positions on the Marmon team will hold a practice session at Lincoln Park Friday night at 6 o'clock, it was announced today by Manager Hinkle.

INVESTIGATION WILL NOT WORRY SHARKEY

Winner of Bout with Delaney Preparing for Fishing Trip

Boston, May 2—Jack Sharkey was not worried today over the New York Boxing Commission's investigation of the one-round knockout of Jack Delaney in New York. At his home in Brighton Sharkey said he was getting together the fishing tackle preparatory to a trout fishing tour in the back woods of New Hampshire.

Sharkey's view over the New York fight probe was that every time he had done anything in the ring that amounted to anything he is in line for an investigation. He goes out to do his best to give the public full return for its money and when he triumphs that triumph is spoiled by an investigation. Sharkey said he was "getting used to it."

With Mrs. Sharkey, who always accompanies him to his prize ring battles, the Boston heavyweight motored home from New York. Upon his arrival he learned of the proposed New York investigation. He was surprised and far from pleased over the turn of events.

Sharkey said he had put in many weeks of hard training for the Delaney bout and felt that he was going to win. First in the ring, he said, he received a poor reception but that did not bother him, merely making him more determined to win. "No one likes to be booed for nothing" said Sharkey.

Determined to win, Sharkey said, he landed on Delaney as fast as he could. He said that a hurricane fight was the first thing this season and he wanted to give the fans exactly what they wanted. Sharkey declared he came through the bout without a scratch.

Ornamental gourds will be a novelty for the back fence.

YANKS AGAIN BLAST WAY TO LEADERSHIP

Babe Ruth Boosts Batting Average; Indians and Reds Win

New York, May 2—With the [illegible] opposition, the Yankees are again blasting their way through all American League opposition. Led by G. Herman Ruth who raised his accumulated batting average to the respectable mark of .313 by clouting two singles, a triple and his fifth home run, the world's champions trounced Washington again yesterday, 8 to 5. The Senators have lost eight straight.

Pittsburgh again defeated the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1. Carmen Hill allowed only five hits. George Grantham, the league's leading batter, had a perfect day at bat with three singles.

Red Lucas outpitched Alexander for the [illegible] as the unfaltering Cincinnati [illegible] the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 3.

The Boston Braves made their hits count and handed the Phillies a 5 to 3 beating. The back bay boys jumped to sixth place.

Johnny Hodapp, whose four errors cost the Indians a ball game on Monday, squared himself with the fans and fate by driving in four runs against the St. Louis Browns. These tallies gave the Indians a 4 to 3 margin.

The rejuvenated Athletics have now copped seven straight games. A [illegible] by Ty Cobb yesterday enabled the Mackmen to win 5 to 3 over the Red Sox.

Detroit collected 16 hits, including seven doubles in taking a 10 to 5 verdict from the White Sox. Harry Rice knocked in no less than seven runs.

With Fitzsimmons and Faulkner on the mound, New York trimmed Brooklyn by a 4 to 2 score yesterday. Harper came home to rock the steam out of Dazzy Vance.

Mt. Gilead: Stevens, 3b; Rathburn, ss; Makeever, 2b; Jaggers, cf; Logan, p; Rule, c; Rhodebeck, 1b; Howard, lf; Steiger, rf.

RUTH LEADING

Babe Ahead of Last Year's Home Run Schedule

WASHINGTON, May 2—The mighty Babe Ruth stands supreme today among the home run hitters of both major leagues. The Bambino socked his fifth homer of the season against the Senators yesterday and is now two games ahead of his last year's record.

Buster Gehrig has only two homers to his credit.

WESLEYAN TEAM TO PLAY TWO CONTESTS

Bishops Will Meet Denison Today and Cincinnati on Saturday

Delaware, May 2—Following the first defeat of the season at the hands of Miami here last week, Ohio Wesleyan's diamond performers will take on Denison and Cincinnati this week in an effort to regain their winning stride.

The Bishops will meet Denison at Granville this afternoon and Cincinnati at Cincinnati Saturday. Neither team as yet has put [illegible] the Methodists [illegible] Buckeye Athletic Association [illegible].

"DAD" BERKSHIRE IS VETERAN OF TRACKS

Urbana Man, 87, Still Active in Training Race Horses

Urbana, May 2—One of the most picturesque figures in the realm of harness racing is R. R. Berkshire, 87, of this county, who claims to be the oldest active race horse trainer in the country.

Berkshire, known as "Dad," has been well known and popular at the half-mile tracks of Ohio and Indiana for more than a half-century.

A native of Champaign county, he has lived here nearly all of his life. He may be found at the fair grounds any day.

The best horse he ever owned "Dad" says was Christy Mack, 2:04¾, a trotter which he bred and raised himself. Berkshire has never driven in many races, many of his entries has been handled by M. Stokes, another veteran.

Berkshire's first horse was Prince Al who had a mark of 2:21¼ and in those days 55 years ago, that was fast enough to win a lot of races.

"Dad" likes to reminisce on the horses and races of days gone by. In the early 90s, Pauline B, a trotter with a record of 2:15¼, was "burning up" the tracks in Ohio.

Recently "Dad" turned over to Guy Roach, Sidney horseman, his good three year old filly by Arion McKinney, 2:05½, and out of the dam, Christie Forbes. This was done only after much persuasion by the veteran trainer's sons.

Another of Christie Forbes' colts, a yearling trotter, he regards as his "best bet" at present.

BOXING COMMISSION LAUNCHES PROBE OF DELANEY KNOCKOUT

Action Taken To Quiet Rumors Relating to Jack Sharkey's Victory

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 2—The proposed investigation by the New York Boxing Commission into the circumstances surrounding the Sharkey-Delaney knockout was proceeding today through a labyrinth of [illegible] rumors, innuendos and allegations. These were of the type bound to have circulation before, after and during the course of many bouts, only this time they were deemed of sufficient possibility to prompt Chairman James A. Farley to order an inquiry.

Farley, however, did not take the action until the stories were [illegible] into a mass of circumstantial evidence and presented in a [illegible] for his consideration in the form of a [illegible]. The presentation apparently found the chairman in a receptive mood for [illegible] of a week of rumors [illegible] to cause him to order a [illegible] warning to the fighters by the referee before the bout.

Visited Delaney

[illegible] were alleged to have [illegible] that the matchmaker, Jess McMahon, was supposed to have visited Delaney's camp in order to judge [illegible]. It seemed, however, that it was an off day in the Delaney camp and McMahon is said to have returned without seeing the fighter.

[illegible] conference between Farley, Jimmy Johnston and Jimmy Bronson, managers of Sharkey and Delaney [illegible].

Will Have Hearing

If Farley's proposed investigation takes the usual form, those identified with the bout will be called before the commission at its next meeting on Friday. The chairman, however, had nothing to add today to his original statement, contenting himself with [illegible] rumors about the [illegible] reached his ears during the past week or more and that he considered that these were worth looking into.

Of the newspapermen congregated at the ringside, the vast majority saw only a remarkable come back on the part of Sharkey in the [illegible] knockout of Delaney. Most of them said that Sharkey looked great. The writer failed to see Sharkey in that light, it being his idea that the Boston party looked good only because Delaney obviously was bad.

It may be something more of a jackpot than a melting pot with great chances for a good luck.

BY W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

New York May 2—With only slight reactions in the oils and specialties, the forward movement in speculative stocks continued on its way today. Demand for the low priced rails, with merger prospects, was a feature of the day's activities, and the New York City utility and traction stocks made another brilliant record.

From the money standpoint, the return of the call rate to five per cent signalizing the beginning of the end of the May financing tightening of the money market, was a feature of more than ordinary importance. Leaders in the financial district look for a 4½ per cent rediscount rate in New York tomorrow, but they refuse to attach any importance whatever to the advance of rates here, and will be glad when the change is made and the whole matter of money rate charges a past incident rather than a subject of unending discussion.

The March railroad reports, though showing a falling off of about three per cent in net earnings from the same month of last year, were characterized as better than expected, and therefore the cause of much gratification in railroad financial circles. The dividend rails moved forward under the lead of Southern Railway and New York Central. Chicago and Alton and Chicago Great Western common and preferred led the forward move in the "merger possibility rails," the former being under accumulation by powerful interests generally reported as the Pennsylvania Railroad. Shifting and "switching" of speculative holdings of industrial and railroad stocks after the second hour accounted for the irregularity in prices of the market leaders, as well as the heavy volume of transactions. The ticker fell back about 35 minutes and accurate quotations were given on the bond tape.

HOLDS HIGH MARK

Marion Steam Shovel Quoted at 74½ on N. Y. Curb

Marion Steam Shovel Co. common stock held its high rating on the New York curb market yesterday, falling only slightly below its highest mark of the year, reached Saturday. Huber Manufacturing Co. common stock held at 130 on the Columbus market and Huber preferred at 103.

HOGS DROP AS DEMANDS FROM SHIPPERS DECLINE

Chicago, May 2—Hogs were 10 to 15c lower today. Demand was slack from shippers and the big packers were exceptionally bearish. The best butchers brought $10.25 with selected heavy at $10. Cattle receipts were liberal and the market 15 to 25c lower for most of the steers and a large percentage of the cows and heifers.

Lambs were quoted steady.

Coffee Market

New York, May 2—The local raw coffee futures market opened about steady today, July sold down five points to 14.45 and May at 13.80 was unchanged.

Today's Review of Yesterday's Market

Chicago, May 2—Rumors by private crop reporters of damage done in the winter wheat belt proved to be a blight to the futures market yesterday. They took the bloom off the bullish situation. High prices withered away. Then it roared and swallowed up paper profits.

The biggest break in wheat was all over in the first hour. Down 5 cents and more from the close of the previous day, prices that had begun to crash badly immediately after the reports were issued at 10 o'clock stiffened up and came back nobly for nearly all of the loss. But the pace was too hard, and toward the end of the session the market slumped again and closed looking rather sick.

Corn presented a four-flushing display of strength early. The market rushed up into new high ground, but could not hold. Late in the day it sold off to a weak close.

Wheat closed with a loss of 3⅛ to 1⅛; corn was down, 1⅝ to 2¼; oats were 1⅛ to 2⅝ lower, rye was down 2½ to 3¾.

The prospect for today seemed highly uncertain in the minds of most professional traders after the close. The sagging off of wheat towards the end was thought likely to put a curb on early buying from the outside. It may lead further to profit taking that will take prices lower.

The weakness of the Liverpool market attracted attention. There was more gloom and less cheer in the local atmosphere than for some time. Longs looked different. The bull structure built up in the last four weeks of advances appeared more scaffolding and less like masonry.

Professional traders may be extremely cautious for a time. The public will do well to act likewise. Even if wheat is going as high as $2 some time next Fall, a lot can happen between now and then.

The average of the estimates of the size of the Winter wheat crop is 474,000,000 bushels. The average estimate of the abandoned acreage is 25 per cent.

For the next six weeks or so corn may lose a good many of its friends. Talk of increased acreage will have a sentimental effect that may put a restraint on buying in spite of the strength in the cash market.

There was an enormous trade in corn yesterday as well as in wheat. Both markets have been on the upgrade for the last month and have made big advances from their low points in February and March. For them to sell off from the present level and jockey up and down with no decided trend for a month or so would not be abnormal in markets.

We are not far from the date when the calendar players say that grains should be sold annually for a good downturn.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 2c lower, corn was unchanged to 2c higher, oats were unchanged to 1 2c lower; rye was easy; barley was steady.

Cotton

New York, May 2—Cotton quotations reacted from 50 cents to $1 a bale at the opening of the market here today. July sold at 21.32, down 22; October 21.25, down 21, December 21.22, down 13, and January 21.15, down 10.

PNEUMONIA DEATHS ALARM PHYSICIANS

Warn People Not To Be Misled by Term "Walking Flu"

Chicago, May 2— An alarming increase in deaths from pneumonia is monopolizing attention of delegates attending the annual Illinois Homeopathic Medical Association convention in session here.

Chicago has just gone through three distinct epidemics, all regarded as contributing factors to the high death rate from pneumonia, according to Dr. Frank Branen of Chicago. These epidemics were listed as "influenza, old-fashioned grippe and epizootic."

Epizootic, Dr. Branen explained, is a malady not necessarily dangerous, but "decidedly uncomfortable." He declared it affects humans like distemper in dogs and horses. Flu and grippe, he said, are stepping stones to pneumonia.

Persons were cautioned not to be misled by the term "walking flu." They were warned to remain in bed until discharged by their physician.

The untimely death of Floyd Bennett, the aviator, was cited as an example of the fate that is likely to overtake patients who leave their beds while the "flu" fever is still upon them.

LARGE BARN BURNS NEAR KIRKPATRICK

Third Fire Within Two Months Destroys Property on Aye Farm

Kirkpatrick, May 2—The third barn within a radius of one mile to be destroyed by fire in the last two months, was burned to the ground shortly after 6 o'clock this morning on the Mitchell Aye farm, two and one-half miles north of here. Five horses, an automobile, a large granary containing a quantity of grain and practically all the farm machinery also was destroyed. The property belongs to Mitchell Aye, who is in Manhattan, Kas., and occupied by Walker Jones and family.

The blaze was discovered by Fred McKnight, a neighbor, who saw the flames bursting from the roof. The fire had gained such headway before being discovered that only the cows and sheep, sheltered in the barn, could be rescued. The loss is partially covered by insurance. Origin of the fire, which is similar to the fires in the vicinity, could not be determined.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. Rose Rhoton Is Hostess to Wit and Wisdom Members

An attractive event in the social activities of the Wit and Wisdom Club, of Waldo, was the three course dinner at which Mrs. Rose Rhoton was hostess yesterday at her home in Chatfield. Daffodils and narcissus arranged a lovely color note in yellow and white in the decorations of the table and during the dinner hour members of the Chatfield School Orchestra entertained with a musical program.

During the program hour, which opened with roll call responses in keeping with Mother's Day, Mrs. Ruth Miley presented a reading, "The Passing of Mother," and Mrs. Lenore Casteel gave a history of a number of well known sacred songs. Plans were made for the annual guest day party June 5 at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Michels, Waldo.

CORPS MEETS

Members Plan to Take Part In Memorial Day Observance

Cooper Relief Corps, No. 194, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic met Tuesday afternoon in the I. O. O. F. Hall, with good attendance. A letter was received and read from Comrade Anderson at the Soldiers Home in Dayton. Mr. Anderson is not receiving a pension and the Corps have been aiding him this winter. A report of the presentation of the flag at Forest Lawn School was made and a resolution adopted to assist financially in the work of restoring the old Marion cemetery. Plans were made for a Memorial Day service and a committee appointed to make the arrangements. G. W. Balding, Cooper Post, No. 117, closed the program with a song. May 15, the Corps will hold its next meeting.

After a woman has passed a certain age she is willing to be married on Friday.

WITH THE STAR STAFF

A NUMBER of Marion residents will go to Cleveland this month to attend ceremonies planned in celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the American Peace Society, according to an advance announcement of the program.

The primary purpose of the society is to effect world peace, literature received here states.

"The only hope for the peace of the world is that one day all nations will have faith in each other and that some machinery will be set up to provide international justice based upon law," is included in the comment, which also reads: "A permanent court, probably based upon the Supreme Court of the United States as a model that for years has maintained justice among the states of the Union, must be set up."

ONE class of transportation has not been changed to a noticeable degree by the amazing increase of motor facilities. The old-time knight of the road who travels in box-cars and goudolas is just as numerous as ever, according to local railway employes. He has not as yet gone over to the automobile, although the practice of "thumbing" free rides in motor cars is becoming generally prevalent.

Autoists as a rule are careful and particular in picking up stray passengers and are not inclined to furnish transportation for individuals who have a suspicious appearance. That may explain why the professional "Weary Willie" continues to ride on freight trains. Because of his soiled and unkempt appearance, he would have little chance of being taken on board automobiles.

Traveling by automobile by "thumbing" their way is indulged in chiefly by college students and other young people seeking lifts usually for a comparatively short distance, motorists report. The average driver does not hesitate to pick up a boy or young man who has at least a fairly presentable appearance.

One Marion youth ranks among the topnotchers for the amount of mileage covered in thumbed journeys. He has kept a record of his trips over a period of several years and reports that his total has just passed the 3,000-mile mark.

Women are not averse to getting free rides in this fashion. Autoists travelling along highways passing colleges are frequently hailed by attractive co-eds waving their thumbs aloft. A little dangerous for unchaperoned girls, it may seem, but so far there have been no reports of any of them coming to grief from riding with strangers.

A woman living in one of the outlying sections of Marion apparently never walks uptown or patronizes the street cars. Whenever the occasion for a shopping tour arrives, she stations herself along the roadway and flashes the thumb signal until rewarded with a pick-up. No wonder the street car company is ready and willing to give up its franchise.

THE time for gardening is at hand, even though the weatherman may be unaware of that fact. Some Marion citizens, weary and impatient from waiting for winter to withdraw permanently have gone ahead with spade and hoe and already have the stage set for harvesting their first crop of onions and radishes.

Now, with weather conditions showing signs of settling down to an even spring-like trend, gardening operations are expected to get under way generally throughout the city and local merchants are preparing for the usual extensive sales of seeds and equipment. Store windows have been decorated with attractive displays of these supplies for several weeks in spite of the weatherman's stubborn attitude of resistance.

LOCAL school teachers who remember Norman Thomas as one of their former pupils are displaying more than ordinary interest in his candidacy for president on the Socialist ticket. Because of their close contact with him, they remember his characteristic clearly, although more than 25 years have elapsed since he was a student in the schools here.

These teachers, several of whom are still in service in the local school work, recall that Thomas was a boy of exceptional mental attainments and high character. In the years of his youth, they say, he showed no signs of leaning toward the views which now class him as a radical in many respects.

Thomas was nominated as the Socialists' presidential candidate at a convention held in New York City recently.

Although ordained as a minister of the gospel in the Presbyterian Church, the one with which his father, Rev. W. E. Thomas, was affiliated, the presidential nominee has not been active in the ministry since 1918.

At that time he gave up his church work, fearing that his pronounced opposition to America's part in the World War might interfere with the welfare of the church. He opposed America's military activities as a foe of the principle of warfare.

Since then he has devoted practically all of his time and efforts to activities in behalf of the Socialist party and labor interests.

IF there is one subject regarding which American citizens should be thoroughly informed, it seems that subject should be politics. Yet there appears to be evidence of some persons, possibly more than some, not being authorities on the subject.

As an illustration, attention is called to a number of incidents connected with the poorly-attended presidential preference primary.

Only a few inquiries regarding results came to the local newspaper office following the primary, which was held, as everybody ought to know, solely for the purpose of electing convention delegates and finding out what presidential aspirant was favored by the people.

One inquiry came, however, from a man who wanted to know "who was nominated for sheriff." He seemed exceedingly surprised, but not in the least embarrassed to learn that he was about five months ahead of time.

Marine Detachments Intend To Cut Off Nicaraguan Rebels

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, May 2—Two additional detachments of marines were enroute today to join the three columns now converging on the Pis Pis mining district in a net spread to capture the Sandinista band which looted the American mines there on April 12 and 13.

Two amphibian planes were expected here today to assist in the drive against the guerillas. The marines intend to cut off the rebels from every side and force them into a decisive battle before the rainy season begins next month.

There was still no word today from George Marshall of New York, assistant manager of the Laluz Mine, and acting-superintendent head of the Neptune Mine, both of whom are believed to be in the hands of the rebels.

NEGRO CANDIDATE FOR MADDEN POST

Selection Believed Dictated by Mayor Thompson; Is Now Committeeman

Chicago, May 2—Oscar Depriest, Chicago's first Negro alderman, has been selected as the Republican candidate for Congress from the First Illinois District to succeed the late Congressman Martin B. Madden.

Depriest is committeeman and Third Ward leader in the political organization headed by Mayor William Hale Thompson. His selection as nominee for Congress was believed dictated by Mayor Thompson, although five first district committeemen, including Depriest, voted unanimously to put the Negroe's name on the ballot.

If he is elected in November, Depriest will be the first Negro congressman from Illinois, and the first to represent any state in 26 years.

Daniel Jackson, another Thompson ward leader in the first district, proposed Depriest for the office at the committeeman meeting. John "Dingbat" Oberta, police character and reputed friend of gangsters, recently elected committeeman from the Seventh Ward, seconded the nomination of Depriest.

Congressman Madden, who was one of the best known men at the nation's capital, died suddenly of heart disease last week after having been renominated to succeed himself. He had represented the First District, with three-quarters of the population Negro, for the past 25 years.

APRIL RECEIPTS IN LOCAL COURT $1,0€7

City's Share of Revenue from Municipal Tribunal Is $861

Municipal Court receipts for April, it was announced in a report for the month submitted by Deputy Clerk Madeline Cahill this morning, were $1,060.11. Of this amount, $199 was paid to the county in state cases while the city received $861.11. Fines received during the month totaled $631.22 while costs in civil cases amounted to $229.89.

Fifty-two arrests were made during the month. As in previous months, intoxication led in the cause of arrests, 24 having been gathered in during the month for this offense. Non-supports were next in the point of numbers, eight having been arrested on this charge during the month.

There were three arrests each for burglary, driving an automobile while intoxicated, petit larceny and bad checks. But one arrest for illegal possession was made during the month while two were gathered in for the illegal transporting of liquor.

Careless Washing Spoils the Hair

If you want beautiful hair, ordinary old time methods of washing will not do. To bring out the real beauty, the hair must be shampooed properly.

Proper shampooing is what makes it soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

Marion County Treasurer's Office, As Tax Collection Agency, Has 10,000 "Customers" During Busy Seasons

Editor's Note — This is the fourth of a series of articles explaining the duties and powers of various local public officials.

BY HARRY S. ELLIOTT

THERE are two county officials in Ohio who have their terms fixed by provisions of the state constitution. One is treasurer and the other the sheriff. The constitution provides that no one shall fill either one of these offices for more than four out of six years, which limits the officials to two consecutive terms.

Although no explanation of why this rule was fixed many years ago in regard to these two offices has ever been absolutely determined, a very plausible reason is generally accepted as the one which probably actuated the authors of the constitution.

The supposition is that the limit was definitely fixed to prevent the sheriff and treasurer from perpetuating themselves in office. In the early days this would have been possible because of the intimate contact which these two officials had with the general public.

Conditions have changed since then, so that neither the sheriff nor treasurer now has much more opportunity of holding his job indefinitely than any other county official. But the constitutional limitation still holds, the same as other antiquated legal provisions which have apparently outlived their usefulness.

No Time for Visiting

The treasurer of Marion County, for instance, has little opportunity in these days to use his official position to fortify himself politically. With thousands of taxpayers to deal with twice each year, he has scant time to visit with any of them and form personal acquaintanceships which would assure him their votes.

At the same time, it is still true that the general public knows the treasurer better, at least by name, than any other county official. As the county's tax collector, his signature appears on all tax receipts and as its disbursing agent he also signs all of its checks. In fact, he is virtually the taxpayers' banker, responsible for accurate handling of all their funds.

The old-time lawmakers who feared that the treasurer would be in position to spend a half-hour or so with each taxpayer and thus gain a permanent hold on votes assuring a life lease on the office might be convinced of their error could they return in this modern era and stand in the crowded lobby of the treasury during a tax-collection period.

Time Is Limited

Should either the treasurer or his aides waste any time exchanging gossip with the public their semi-annual task of gathering in the tax funds could not possibly be completed on scheduled time. Each six months, taxes must be collected from approximately 10,000 individuals and firms and the work must be completed in five or six weeks.

And like a banking institution, the work done during office hours at the treasury is only a small part of the proceeding. Prior to each tax collection thousands of receipts are prepared and filed so that the rush can be handled as expeditiously as possible when the payment period opens.

At the close of each day's business, a cash balance must be struck and necessarily it must be accurate. The treasurer is responsible for every item marked paid on the tax books and there are quite a few of these items. To be approximately exact, the number is around 220,000, representing taxes of all classes.

At the close of each semi-annual collection, after payments are credited and delinquencies marked, the tax books go to the auditor's office, where settlement figures are compiled. When the settlement sheets are completed, the treasurer must have funds on hand to cover the amount charged against him by the auditor.

Up in Millions

Tax collections in Marion County now total more than $2,000,000 annually, this being the amount required for all government and public service in the county and its various subdivisions as well as the state.

For each tax collection the office of the Marion County treasurer makes out 44,000 tax bills, 11,000 for personal and 33,000 for real estate tracts. These are made out in duplicate at the beginning of the year, half for the first six months' period and the other half for the second period.

The receipts are typewritten, this plan having been in use since about eight years ago. The loose leaf receipt system is used here, as it is in practically all of the larger counties. In many of the smaller counties, receipts are in book form and while that plan is regarded as possibly more accurate, it slows up the collection and for that reason is not suitable for communities where there is an extensive volume of business.

Tax collections and settlements must proceed without any hitch or serious delay in order that funds may be in and accounted for by March 1 and September 1 of each year. Distribution of tax funds is essential before these dates, when bonds and interest of the various taxing sub-divisions fall due.

Deposits Large

Funds in the treasury run over $1,000,000 toward the close of a tax collection and rarely fall below $250,000 at the lowest point during the year. These funds, with the exception of a few thousand dollars carried in the vault for immediate needs, are constantly out on interest in the county depositories. Last year the interest earnings amounted to approximately $22,000.

The depository system is one of the numerous features indicating improvement in public business over old-time methods. There was a time, not so very many years ago, when county treasurers followed the amazing and unexplainable plan of keeping all of the public's money in the treasury vault.

It is related that old-time treasurers in Marion County slept in their offices in order to guard the funds when the amount on hand reached its peak at tax collection time.

One of the most troublesome problems of the Marion County treasurer, as well as all others in the state, is collection of personal property taxes. Real estate tax can not be evaded as long as the property will stand the assessment. It can be sold under foreclosure in the event that taxes remain delinquent for four years or longer.

Movable Property

But with personal property it is a different matter. This class of property is listed for taxation in April and the first payment is not due until the following December. This means that before the time for collection arrives, the citizens charged with taxes may leave the community with no means available for tracing them.

When the treasurer mails out notices for overdue personal property taxes following the first half of the year, several hundred are almost invariably returned marked, "Moved, present address unknown." This circumstance explains why many thousands of dollars of personal tax delinquencies are now standing on treasurer's books throughout Ohio.

The oldest tax duplicate in the Marion County treasurer's office is a frayed little volume, yellow from age yet remarkably well preserved, listing property for the year 1827. Hezekiah Gorton was auditor at that time.

Property in the county was then valued a $105,312 for taxation. Of this total, $90,045 represented lands and buildings in the rural districts and $5,260 in the city of Marion.

Present-day figures show how the situation has changed since then. The tax duplicate now totals more than $90,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is the value of city property and $40,000,000 property in the rural territory and villages.

The salary of the Marion County treasurer is $3,135 a year, being based on population shown in the last census. The 1930 census is expected to increase the pay of all county officials.

James E. Messenger, the treasurer, is serving his second term, which will expire the first Monday of September, 1929. His corps of assistants consists of R. J. Shelton deputy and Mrs. Mary Ann Stafford, Marion, and Miss Magdalene Gast, Prospect, clerks.

Raising her child on common sense

HERE'S a baby that is being brought up in the way he should go—on a plain, sensible kind of rule. His mother learned it from her own experience before he was born. "Just keep your system in good working order", her doctor told her, "and you'll never have anything to worry about."

So, of course, when the baby came she made up her mind to follow that same plan with him. The doctor gave his hearty approval. "Go ahead and use Nujol", he said. "It's just the thing for the baby. Harmless. Safe. Contains no drugs or medicine. It's the most natural way in the world to keep everything normal. For Nujol not only prevents any excess of the body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal.

Let me give you another suggestion, too. Use Nujol on the outside of the baby, in place of powder. Just swab his skin, after the bath, with a bit of cotton moistened with Nujol. That's the new method they're using in the big hospitals. It has a wonderfully soothing, softening effect on the skin. There's no need for any baby to have rashes and chafing if you use Nujol. Get a big bottle and keep it specially for the baby. Get a separate bottle for yourself."

Why don't you try Nujol in your household? It was perfected by Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey.)

Nujol can't do anyone—baby or grown-up—the least bit of harm. And so many people have found it beneficial. Be sure you get the genuine.

Often you hear the cry—"Give me back the good old days." But would you want to go back to the "old days" when the horse and buggy were the mode of transportation—when in the winter you hugged a coal stove, scorched your face and froze your back—oil lamps were the only light.

SENATE WILL WATCH CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Dawes Authorized To Name Committee To Check All Candidates

Washington, May 2—Presidential candidates were put on guard today by the speedy action of the Senate in authorizing an inquiry into campaign expenditures.

Vice President Dawes was instructed to appoint a committee of five senators to sit between now and election time and investigate at their will the expenditures of all candidates without regard to party.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas, minority leader of the Senate, sponsored the resolution. It is modeled almost exactly upon the lines of the Borah resolution of 1926.

The committee appointed was:

Senator Frederick Steiwer, Republican, of Oregon; Senator Porter Dale, Republican, of Vermont; Senator W. H. McMaster, Republican, of South Dakota; Senator A. W. Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, and Senator F. G. Bratton, Democrat, of New Mexico.

LINDY DOESN'T PLAN TRANSOCEANIC HOPS

Denies Latest Story from Capital That He Will Make Long Flight

Washington, May 2—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh isn't planning any more transatlantic flights to Europe.

The pioneer ocean flier made that plain today in denying the latest story emanating from the Washington rumor factory that he had completed plans for such a flight this summer with stops at Greenland and Iceland.

Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier of the Army Air Service who was mentioned as his co-pilot in such an undertaking issued a similar denial.

"Such a flight would add nothing to the advancement of aviation," said Lindbergh.

He said he still hoped to return to Europe "some day" and see the things he missed last summer when the government ordered his immediate return to the United States, but he has made no definite plans.

AMAZING RELIEF OBTAINED BY USE OF THIS KONJOLA

"Ended Years of Health Troubles," He Said; Restored His Health in General

MR. SHELBY YOUNG

"I had been a sufferer for years first trying one thing and then another before I knew there was medicine like Konjola, and now since I have found this medicine it has ended years of health troubles," said Mr. Shelby Young, 81 Worren Street, Columbus, Ohio.

"All during the day I was subject to bilious attacks and dizzy spells. At night I was always completely worn-out but I never got the proper rest because of nervousness. I was always suffering from stomach trouble and everything that I ate caused quantities of gas to form and I had awful indigestion pains. There seemed to be a constant heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach that was very uncomfortable. I was getting worse all the time and felt that I never would be well again.

"When I started to take Konjola I gained immediate relief. The billious attacks disappeared and I never have dizzy spells any more. My nerves are so much better that I can sleep through the entire night and I feel refreshed every morning. My stomach is in perfect condition and I can eat anything that I want without the least bit of suffering afterward. The gas and heavy feeling never come over me and I actually feel like a different person. I owe all my new health to Konjola and gladly indorse this medicine."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

A Splendid Effort.

As a result of the Y. M. C. A.-Boy Scout drive, subscriptions aggregating $22,157 were secured. Such was the announcement made at the final meeting of the workers, Monday evening. While this amount lacks a few thousand dollars of the sum sought, the hope was expressed at the meeting that the total of the subscriptions might be materially augmented through the efforts of the special gifts committee, which had not yet reported.

It would be pleasing to all interested in the work of the Young Men's Christian association and the Boy Scouts should this hope be realized, but whether it is or not, we feel that the members of the twenty teams and any and all others engaged in the drive are entitled to high commendation.

We can not recall a campaign for funds since the organization of the local Y. M. C. A. in which greater effort or more conscientious endeavor to attain the end sought was manifested. All of those engaged worked hard and long. We know that some of the workers feel that they, in some day unknown to them, must have fallen down in their efforts, but we would rather believe that their failure to attain their goal was due rather to conditions over which they had no control than to failure of effort or method on their part.

Our opinion is that they demonstrated that they are real live wires, and that the showing made by them is a decidedly creditable one.

See Ohio First.

[illegible] comes the announcement that the [illegible] week of the present month will be utilized by the new organized "Know Ohio" league for the launching, through the newspapers, the radio, the movies, and posters, of an [illegible] campaign to make known to the people of the state the [illegible] of "Why Ohioans Should [illegible] Ohio First."

The only criticism of the idea of the league we can offer is that it should have been initiated and carried into execution long ago. Ohio has been far too modest in the past about calling attention to her beauty spots and points of historic or archaeological interest within her boundaries, so modest, in fact, that thousands upon thousands of her people little realize how extremely wealthy their state is in these regards.

We have it from so good an authority as Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State university, who is president of the new organization, that "there are 640 outstanding spots of either great natural beauty or intense interest in Ohio listed in archaeological archives and travelers' guides," and he adds that "we now have more than 20,000 miles of improved highways over which motorists may travel for days without duplication" of highways.

"With Lake Erie and its beauty spots to the north, the Ohio river on the east and south and scores of beautiful lakes and streams between, intermingled with hills, small mountains, mounds and geological formations rich in history," Dr. Thompson continues, "Ohio presents a travel ground as interesting as any which may be found anywhere in the world."

There is no part of our state without its beauty spots. Let us cite close to us here at home, the panorama which unfolds to the eye from the hilltop beyond Mansfield and the entrancing beauty of the county from Hayesville to Loudonville. Rare gems in a scenic way are almost infinite in number in our river valleys. We find them in the valleys of the Great and Little Miamis, in the Scioto valley, some in the Hocking and hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of Americans have crossed the Atlantic in the search for scenes of natural beauty and found few, if any, to excel many in the magnificent natural beauty of the valley of the Muskingum.

Admittedly, there are scenes of rare beauty in Europe, scenes enriched by mountains and seas, but the average American tourist does not see them, as it takes a deal of tiresome travel from the points touched by the most of the tourists from this country to reach them. England and Wales have their beauty spots, so have Switzerland, Italy, southern France and Spain, but they may be reached only by the expenditure of considerable time and means, while those of Ohio are within easy reach, to be enjoyed at trifling cost, comparatively speaking—at the outlay of a minimum of time and the cost of food, lodging and gasolene—and the highway approaches to them are of a quality such as Europe does not know, for today America stands first of all the world in the excellence of her highways.

The Old world has nothing to excel the majestic grandeur of the natural scenery of the New. See the Old world, of course, but see America first, and before seeing the rest of America, see our own home state of Ohio.

Egypt has complied with John Bull's demand that the assemblies bill, which was objectionable to him, be dropped. The Egyptian government didn't exactly suffer a change of heart, but it didn't like the looks of the cannon on the warships John had moved down that way.

Made What It May Be Today.

Here's a truth by Attorney General John G. Sargent worthy of the attention and earnest thought of every human being of understanding years in the country:

"It is only a step—and an easy one—for one who hears and reads that men of influence aver that he is not in conscience bound to give allegiance to one provision of the constitution because it interferes with his liberty, to come to the conclusion that he is not in conscience bound to observe another law, and then another."

The prohibition law is not, in itself, a curse. It has been made such to the extent it is by people of influence who, by word and example, have advocated its defiance. The same degree of effort applied by the same people for its observance could make it the greatest blessing ever conferred upon the people of our land by legislative enactment.

Falcon Island, of the Tonga group in the Pacific ocean, which was raised above the level of the sea in 1885 by a convulsion of nature and disappeared only to reappear a few years later as the result of another upheaval, is now two miles long and in violent eruption, spouting giant streams of lava into the sea. How puny, at the utmost, are the powers of man compared with the forces of nature!

A wire from Washington says that the president has indicated that there are too many riders and too much pork in the Jones-Reid flood control bill and that the changes made in it make its financial features more unacceptable than ever. One can fairly see Mr. Coolidge selecting another pen which will possess fame as a memento of his administration.

To Avoid Kidney Gravel.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Among the letters that come as a result of those articles on health are many that relate to stone in the kidney. These writers want to know what is the chief cause.

Of course there are many factors. But we can not overlook the chief cause and that is faulty diet.

Let me not be misunderstood. If the body is functioning as it should, if there is no underlying disease, if there are no lurking germs in the system, it is not likely gravel will form. At the center of each stone may be the product of germ life.

But there too, too, may go back to wrong eating habits.

To find out what food may be at fault it is important to find out what chemical substance is found in abnormal quantities in the urine. Therefore, the first thing to do is to have the urine analyzed to determine if it contains excessive quantities of certain salts. Some of these materials are uric acid, oxalate of lime or phosphates. Your doctor will decide this question for you. These are the substances which form the gravel or stones.

If uric acid is found to be formed too freely, your doctor will tell you to cut down on meat, particularly certain parts of the animal, notably sweetbreads, kidney, liver or brain. All smoked, spiced and highly seasoned food, rich pastry and coffee should be eliminated from the diet. Fats and sugars should be taken in moderation, while vegetables, fruits and milk should be used freely.

If oxalates produce the gravel, omit vegetables, except peas and beans. You should not take spinach and rhubarb. Figs, strawberries, apples and pears may well be omitted from the diet.

When the stone is caused by phosphates, the vegetables [illegible] could be decreased and the meat diet may be increased.

You will see from what I say that the diet depends largely on the nature of the stone producing condition. Your doctor will advise you about this. Self-medication and strict dietary practices self-determined are never [illegible]. Even with careful following of the rule I give you today, you might not be benefited in the least for the reason that the advice may not apply to your particular form of trouble. Consult your doctor.

In any case, however, you should [illegible] and you should be sure to drink plenty of water between meals. This is the way to avoid kidney stone and it is the way to [illegible] distressing conditions. Always [illegible] to avoid disease than it is to cure it.

Editorial Opinion.

"THE GREAT TEST."

After several years' work France has produced her motion picture of the World war. "La Grande Epreuve" differs from all the other war movies put out by the other nations. Its spirit, according to the reports of the first showing in Paris this week, is one of patriotism untinged by bitterness toward former enemies. Hollywood has made at least one picture which deeply offended English spectators. The English film, "Dawn," is still hung up here, though officially it has been released for showing. Public opinion has climbed to a broader viewpoint than was possible in the years immediately following the war. The French were wise to wait with their film until it could be shown generously to a properly receptive world.

Many scenes taken by army operators during the war are used. The government, the army and the general staff have cooperated closely to make the background of the story accurate and authentic. Despite the military interest in it, and the fact that it is essentially a war story, anything that would foster old hatreds has been carefully omitted. The word, "German," does not occur. In following the fortunes of a typical French family from the contented days before the outbreak until peace comes again, there are necessary references to "the enemy," but he is not shown in a hateful light. The war is seen as a tragedy for him as well as for the French.

It is especially handsome to show the Germans in a favorable light in the only close-up on their side of the battlefield. A French baroness and her ailing daughter remain in their chateau, which is occupied by the enemy force. A German doctor puts his scientific knowledge at their disposal and promises a cure for the girl.

America will welcome this picture if it is all that the first-nighters say. It is representative of French tact as well as French courage. Making movies, it would seem, is another of the things they do better in France.—New York Times.

GROWTH IN LIFE INSURANCE.

During 1927 the 300 legal reserve life insurance companies operating in the United States wrote $50,000,000 of new business daily. They made a gain in business for the year of ten per cent, that ten per cent being based on all the business they had been able to acquire in the past. In view of the fact that for seventy years life insurance companies have been increasing their sales and building up their business by every good method known, the Spectator, leading life insurance journal, regards the record of last year as one of the outstanding accomplishments in life insurance. More than mere growth, that record [illegible], the figures prove the completeness with which the public has been won to the beneficiaries of life insurance, an understanding of its larger values and advantages to the policy holder and his family.

So vast has life insurance become, with $86,000,770,872 of insurance in force at the end of last year, that policy-holders are receiving daily from their insurance companies about $5,000,000 in death claims, matured endowments, dividends and cash surrender values. That is part of the picture of beneficence to which the Spectator calls attention.

Life insurance has a high place in the business world, both on the financial and on the human side. It solves problems, helps carry on and makes for success, it provides protection and reveals the degree of prudence and care with which men plan their affairs and provide for their dependents. It prevents interruptions and trouble, helps keep economic conditions in balance. It is a fuller understanding of these facts that makes possible the larger sales of insurance each year.—Ohio State Journal.

The Egg of Creation.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

According to a suggestion of Dr. Robert A. Millikan—a suggestion which he warns us against taking for anything more than it is—the [illegible] "cosmic rays," of which he was the [illegible] discoverer a few years ago, may be the by-products of a grand process of creation, which the universe is continuously being renewed, or renews itself.

These rays have a penetrating power of unexampled effect. [illegible] though we can not see them we feel them, and are apparently in no way affected by them. They are supposed to come from distant stars or from nebulae which are changing into stars, being shot off when atoms of a complex nature are built up out of other atoms of a more primal kind.

It appears that nature herself is a spendthrift—though what she loses in one place she gains in another—and when she takes electrons from one atom to build up a different atom she spills some of the energy that was locked in the first atom, and this released energy darts away in the form of rays, or streams of "waves," of such excessive activity that their vibrations take place at the rate of not less than a hundred thousand million per second!

When you go by the open door of a blacksmith shop where the smith is hammering a horseshoe, you are greeted by a warm rush of lost heat; and, somewhat similarly as the earth careers onward through space illumined with the furnace of the stars, it is met from all sides by streams of lost energy escaped from the stellar atoms, in the process, as Dr. Millikan suggests, of the creation of new elements.

He bases this suggestion on certain measurements which he has made of the frequency of vibration of the mysterious "cosmic rays." The frequencies found correspond with such as should result according to the Einsteinian formula for the transformation of mass into energy, and the four main groups in which the cosmic radiations seem to gather would accord with the following steps in the atomic changes toward more and more complex elements:

1. When an atom of helium is created from the nucleus of the hydrogen atom, which is the simplest known entity.
2. When oxygen and nitrogen atoms are similarly created out of hydrogen.
3. When silicon and magnesium are formed.
4. When the atom of iron is created.

This is all based upon the new theory so captivating to the imagination, though so shocking to old and long-established ideas, that all kinds of matter are merely forms or states of electricity, the atoms being made up of electrons which are pure negative electricity enchained with nuclei, which are apparently composed of both negative and positive electricity, and which possess almost all the mass that the atom contains. It is by changes in the nuclei that atoms are transformed, and it is when electrons and protons—units of positive electricity—are, by such changes, packed into the nuclei of heavier and more complex atoms, that the energy that gives rise to the cosmic rays is released.

But this whole subject is just at the beginning of its development, the theories concerned are themselves subject to re-examination and we must wait for further investigation and discussion before it can be affirmed that something has actually been learned about the primal secret of creation. — Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, May 2. — The highly-successful New Yorker at one time or other in his career reaches the point where he desires more than anything else to be saved from friends. He finds himself besieged by those who use his friendship as an excuse for jobs, loans or recommendations.

The enterprise the successful man commands has been, as a rule, built up in a cold commercial manner, with few sentimental values, and he dare not risk a single weak link. To give a job to a friend for mere friendship's sake is a mistaken kindness. He would rather pay him a salary than have him around.

Much of a successful man's unpopularity, it will be found, is inspired by those who once claimed friendship. Several years ago I was in the waiting-room of a prominent magnate when a shabby and scowling man passed out of his office.

The magnate was upset. He inquired if I had seen the fellow who just left. He was one who had tried many things and failed and had come around for help. They had been rare and close friends in other days, had gone through rough times and heard the bullets sing.

He desired a job, but that his friend could not give him. He wanted to tremendously, but his greater responsibility was to his stockholders. "It seemed cruel," he said, "for him to think that for a moment I had forgotten him. We had shared so much together."

The magnate said he had resorted to frankness and wound up by begging his friend to ask him for any reasonable sum. To consider it as a loan, but for him never for a second to think that he expected it back. But it was a chance to get on in the world he wanted, and the offer of a loan offended.

So he lost a friend and doubtless acquired an enemy. Another successful man told me his success had cut him off from all the friends of early days who were dear to him. More than half sought to take advantage of his prominence for themselves or others, so in self-protection he decided not to see any of them.

* * *

Tribute to great men often says in substance: "His legion of friends glory in his success." That is rarely true. There is something a little perverse about human nature that makes friends prefer their friends to stick in their accustomed groove. When they hop out of it on their way to the heights, their friends are first to wonder how in the world that could happen. Friendship is, of course, a wonderfully fine thing, but its jealousies over success are often contemptibly mean and petty. The successful man usually tells you that most of the adulation he receives comes from those who never knew him until he became a success. It is friends who watch for him to come a cropper.

* * *

If there is fun in being a high-pressure success, it is difficult to observe from the side lines. What should be relaxing hours, are really a fight to be physically fit for the exacting grind. The tasks left for the big executive are those that can not be accomplished by others and are necessarily the most difficult, if you get what I mean. It seems rather thick to me.

* * *

There is a shadowy restaurant which is a rendezvous for young folks in love. They may hold hands and even embrace without being observed from the next table. And its proprietor, I am told, is an elderly maidenly lady who was disappointed in love and is now blind.

* * *

There is a head waiter in town who lacks the usual tact. Said he to a gentleman escorting a lady: "Your usual table, M'soo?" The greeting was really to impress the lady with the gentleman's importance when as a matter of fact the gentleman had never been in the restaurant before. And the lady happened to be his wife.

* * *

My own success in inspiring sweeping salaams from head waiters has been nothing to write home about. Just the other night one greeted me with, "Hello, young squirrel." Rather disconcerting to any one trying to be a trifle man-about-townish.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

"What makes life dreary is the want of motive," said George Elliot. It is even better to have a little aim than no aim at all. Be sure of something you want to do, somewhere you want to get, somebody you want to be. Whatever gives life a purpose and a meaning to you is the thing that holds for you the possibility of happiness.

* * *

Strange how many mistake the appearance of power for power itself. Many seem rather to want the trappings of power, the titles and the gold braid, than power itself. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, novelist, once said: "The ability to secure your own way and impress others with the idea that they are having their own way is rare among men; among women it is as common as eyebrows."

Tact is more powerful than a battery of machine guns—or a tractor. It takes a high order of brains to get your own way and make others think they are having theirs.

* * *

Are you doing any of the things you've always wanted to do?" Or are you still swinging your feet off a chair in the ante-room of life? Are you just talking about the things you are going to do "sometime?" Life is not long. We are living in the here and now. Today is your real chance at this world. If you are not doing some of them this year you will not be doing more of them next year. Do you remember a beautiful bit of verse by the eloquent negro poet, Countee P. Cullen.

"I have a rendezvous with life
In days I hope will come
Ere youth has sped and strength of mind,
Ere voices sweet grow dumb;
I have a rendezvous with life
When spring's first herald's hum.
Sure, some would cry it better far
To crown their days in sleep,
Then face the wind, the road and rain,
To heed the falling deep.
Though wet nor blow, nor space I fear
Yet fear I deeply, too,
Lest death should greet and claim me ere
I keep life's rendezvous."

* * *

The courage to say you don't know is probably the real beginning of finding out some facts. The fear of most of us that we will appear ignorant is one of the causes of our remaining ignorant.

Dinner Stories.

"Are you a wet or a dry?" inquired the interviewer.

"I can't say offhand," rejoined Senator Sorghum, as he looked out of the railway car window. "What state are we in now?"

* * *

"This is the time of the year," said the commuter, "when I like to get out and dig in the ground."

"So do I," returned Mr. Foozler. "That's the reason I'm trying to play golf."

* * *

"I've got to reduce! The doctor recommends horseback riding."

"Is it satisfactory?"

"Not exactly. I'm not losing weight, but I'm falling off."

CAPITAL TURNS OUT TO GREET AIRMEN

Secretary Kellogg Welcomes Atlantic Heroes to Washington for Government

stone on the path of man's conquest over the forces of nature. Moreover, I like to consider your achievement symbolic of the ever-narrowing distances which separate the nations of the modern world, both in a real and a figurative sense.

"Your undertaking itself was an example of international co-operation and its happy outcome is all the more gratifying to this country to whose upbuilding the German and Irish nations has so richly contributed."

Notables On Hand

A storm of applause from the crowd about a temporary stand on the field, of several thousand people, grouped about a temporary stand on the field, added emphasis to Kellogg's simple tribute.

In the official group on the stand were Herr Frederic Wilhelm Von Prittwitz Und Gaffron the German ambassador; Timothy Smiddy, the Irish minister, the air secretaries of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and a distinguished group of Army and Navy officers.

The applause grew into an ovation as, at the conclusion of Kellogg's remarks, Lindbergh stepped forward and was introduced to his contemporaries. Clicking cameras and whirring moving picture machines made photographic history of the quartet of daring fliers as the stood to acknowledge the cheers.

Little Tumult

There was little of the tumultous acclaim of New York's reception, however, in the Washington welcome today. There were few people on the streets when the fliers made their first appearance, and not many more when they left Bolling Field and motored back to their hotel after the welcome at the field.

The fliers arrived here early this morning by train and slept until 8 o'clock in their special Pullman car which was parked in the Union Station grounds. They breakfasted at the Mayflower Hotel and then motored alone to Bolling Field.

A salute of guns from Battery C of the 10th U. S. Field Artillery was fired as they entered the field and a troop from the Third Cavalry formed their escort.

Scurry for Medals

Another troop of cavalry was drawn up at the Mayflower entrance as the party returned to the hotel, accompanied by the ambassador, the minister and the three government air secretaries.

President Coolidge's first act of recognition of the Bremen's achievement today was to sign a bill conferring upon its crew the American Distinguished Flying Cross. When Congress authorzed the medals, a hurried search at the War Department disclosed there were only two on hand. Late yesterday an army airplane flew to Philadelphia, obtained additional medals and flew back this morning. The presentation ceremonies were scheduled for the White House later today.

Before leaving New York early today for Washington, the Bremen fliers were guests of honor last night at one of the most brilliant banquets ever tendered by the City of New York. It was held at Hotel Commodore and was attended by 3,300 guests. Only the Lindbergh banquet, at which 4,100 were present, surpassed it in the city's record of banquets of the last 10 years.

The speakers included Mayor James J. Walker, Dr. Friedrich W. Von Prittwitz, the German ambassador, and Timothy A. Smiddy, minister plenipotentiary of the Irish Free State.

REPORTED IMPROVING

Mrs. Leon M. Nutt, 224 E. Mark-st, who is ill at City Hospital is reported to be improving. Mr. Nutt, who is suffering with a discolated shoulder, is also reported to be improved. Guests at the L. M. TAKEN TO HOME

Mrs. Rex Robinson was removed from City Hospital to her home, 346 Summit-st, this afternoon in the Schaffner-Queen invalid car.

DECLARE AL SMITH CANNOT BE HALTED

New York Governor Sweeps Through California to Decisive Victory

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat of Montana, an avowed dry, and backed by William G. McAdoo in the California contest, finished a poor third to Smith and a poor second to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Incomplete returns and private advices reaching Democratic leaders here indicate that Smith will eventually be shown to have polled more votes than his two rivals combined.

Carries Dry Country

This, the Smith supporters declared today, is due to the oft-advanced contention of the opposition that "the dry Democracy of the west will never accept Smith." The governor even carried Southern California, which is the stronghold of the dry sentiment of the state.

The future of Senator Walsh's candidacy appeared doubtful today. Thus far, Walsh has not a single committed delegate, save his own eight from Montana, and prior to the announcement of his candidacy it was known that Montana's delegates were favorable to the New York governor. Walsh was entered in Wisconsin, and lost to Smith and Reed. He has now lost again, and heavily, in California.

Reed Still In

Reed, on the other hand, is still in the picture. At least he has a total of some 61 delegates, scattered through half a dozen states.

Smith's present total of 508 delegates are scattered from Maine to California, and from the Canadian border to the Gulf, which is another point that his friends dwell upon to show the universal nature of his strength.

As compiled here and conceded to be substantially accurate, the Smith slate shows to date:

Arizona, 6; Arkansas 8 out of 18; California 26; Idaho, 8; Illinois, 50 out of 58; Iowa 26; Louisiana, 20; Maine, 12; Massachusetts, 36; Michigan, 30; Minnesota, 24; New Hampshire, 8; New York, 90; North Dakota, 10; Oklahoma 12 out of 20; Pennsylvania 66 out of 76; Rhode Island, 10; Washington, 14; Wisconsin, 20 out of 26; Wyoming, 6; the Territories 26.

DECISIVE VICTORY

5,713 Precincts Give Smith Lead by 30,000 Votes

San Francisco, May 2—A decisive victory for Gov. Alfred E. Smith was indicated today by incomplete returns from the Democratic vote in California's preferential primary election yesterday.

Out of a total of 9,011 precincts throughout the state, returns from 3,713 showed Smith to be leading by more than 30,000 votes over the combined poll of both of his opponents for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

While the New York governor had garnered a total of 100,528 ballots, Reed had polled 40,128 and Walsh 29,501, in the reported precincts.

Despite the light vote cast throughout the state, Herbert Hoover, sole candidate on the Republican ticket, was accorded a good-sized "confidence vote" of 403,508 in the 5,713 precincts thus far tabulated.

35 Per Cent Vote

It is estimated that approximately 35 per cent of the 1,819,979 registered voters cast ballots in the election. This is ascribed by political observers to the absence of a contest in Republican ranks in a predominantly Republican state.

As tabulation of the ballots proceeded, indications pointed to a steady growth in Governor Smith's lead. Out of the precincts already tabulated, approximately four ballots had been cast in his favor to each one for either Reed or Walsh.

In 1,785 precincts out of the 2,607 in Los Angeles County, the most densely populated county in California, Smith was accorded a plurality of more than 13,000 votes over Walsh, who was officially supported by the William Gibbs McAdoo faction, and a plurality of more than 8,650 over Reed.

Complete returns from San Francisco County gave Smith an overwhelming majority over his opponents. A stronghold of the Smith forces, San Francisco County gave the New York governor 30,062, while Reed received 5,343 and Walsh 1,792 votes.

EXPECT EXTENSIVE CONVENTION DISPLAY

Fire-Fighting Apparatus To Be Exhibited Here at State Chiefs' Meeting

With prospects of securing as many as 15 pieces of fire-fighting apparatus as well as a large display of accessories for exhibition purposes, the annual gathering of fire chiefs of the state at their convention to be held in this city on June 5, 6 and 7, gives promise of being one of the largest in recent years.

John Shilling, of Wooster, chairman of the exhibit committee of the state association, who was in the city yesterday, reported to Fire Chief McFarland that he had received inquiries from nearly twice as many manufacturers seeking exhibit privileges as in previous years.

New Model Nozzle

A fire-fighting accessory of recent invention and one which will be displayed at the convention, is a four-line nozzle mounted on a turntable base that is not required to be held by firemen and which can be turned at will in any direction. A heavy brass base studded beneath with brass pins holds the nozzle rigidly to the streets while a stream being fed by fours lines of hose is played on the blaze.

The nozzle, which was brought to this city yesterday by Shilling, was given a test at Crystal Lake park by Chief McFarland yesterday afternoon. The chief stated this morning that with a pressure of 150 pounds, more than 1,000 gallons of water a minute was thrown through the nozzle without disturbing the base. The nozzles are manufactured by the Akron Brass Co., of Wooster.

ASSERTS OPERATORS THROUGH WITH UNION

Athens County Committee Admits Failure To Restore Peace

Athens, May 2—"Coal mine operators are through dealing with the United Mine Workers of America," Fred Beasley, head of an investigating committee of Athens County citizens to conduct a survey of the deadlock between operators and miners, reported at a mass meeting of 700 persons here last night.

Beasley said that operators and miners were "hopelessly deadlocked" and that the committee of investigation which he headed had failed to bring about peace.

A wage scale in accordance with the economic conditions in the various districts was urged by Oral Daugherty, former president of subdistrict one of the United Mine Workers of America.

FOOD FOR MINERS

"Save the Union" Supporters Are Given Supplies

Martins Ferry, May 2—Forty-two barrels of bacon, a carload of flour, 180 sacks of sugar, 180 sacks of barley, and 180 sacks of peas have been sent to the families of miners near Yorkville, Belmont County, whose relief from the United Mine Workers of America was cut off because they supported the "Save the Union" movement, it was made known here today.

The National Relief Committee, which has succeeded the Pennsylvania-Ohio relief organization, was the contributor. This new organization is credited with having sponsored the progressive wing of the United Mine Workers of America.

FIRE CALL RECEIVED FROM DOMBAUGH HOME

The fire chief's car responded to a call from the home of Mrs. Victor Dombaugh, 447 E. The papers were thought to have been ignited by a gas grate which was burning in the fireplace.

OFFICERS DISCOVER GIGANTIC RUM PLOT

Airplanes, Boats, Autos with Signal System Used on Toledo Farm

Toledo, May 2—A gigantic rum running plot involving the use of airplanes, speedy motor launches, high powered automobiles and an extensive signaling system for use of rum runners from Canada to Toledo was today before the Federal Court, it was revealed by United States officers.

Alfred Mominee, owner of a large farm near Toledo, and John and Joseph Nemet were under bond awaiting trial on charges of violating the Volstead Act, customs laws, revenue acts, and illegal possession and transportation of intoxicants. Additional arrests of an aviator and several motor launch operators were expected today.

The rum running headquarters, according to Assistant United States Attorney Lee N. Murlin, were maintained on Mominee's farm, where airplanes, guided by a blinker signal system, landed their liquor cargoes. The signal, composed of red, green and white lights, visible only from Canadian shores, was found on a 20-foot pole on the farm.

When his ragged, burned clothing had been stripped from him there were no [illegible] at the Lookout station to re[illegible], he lay under the blankets [illegible] and uneasy, his anxious glance [illegible] the door opening into the living [illegible] where Monica sat caring for [illegible].

"[illegible]," the ranger announced [illegible] when the last bandage was [illegible], "I have a notion you'll pull [illegible] make a hand yet."

"[illegible] I could die, Ranger. Somehow, I [illegible] appear to have any luck [illegible]."

"[illegible] has changed, old settler. Last night while Uncle Charley was [illegible] his soul of its heavy secret I [illegible] on the night and saw [illegible] Bob Mason star in the ascendent. I [illegible] almost guarantee you that you'll [illegible] go back to San Quentin."

The man shook his head. "My liberty [illegible] too high a price," he replied [illegible].

"What do you mean? It will cost you [illegible]. I was a lawyer before ill-health forced me to seek a life in the open, and I chose the Forest Service. I'm as husky as a three-year-old steer now—and I'm still a lawyer—and not a dull one, either, if I do say so myself. I'm going to handle your appeal, without charge. I'll induce the Supreme Court to grant a writ of review in your case; I will then present my newly discovered evidence, the Supreme Court will grant you a new trial, and I will defend you.

"And when I take on that task your fate will not be in the hands of a simple, trusting, unsophisticated cow-county lawyer, overawed in the presence of imported opposing counsel. I'll pick the jury this time; I'll talk to that jury and when I have a subject with heaps of human appeal in it, I'm the bright boy who can pull out the vox humana stop and make a jury weep."

"Oh, you can, can you?" There was irony in Mason's tones. "Well, you haven't got any new evidence, have you?"

"No, but I'll bet a dollar to a doughnut we'll find it."

"If you do, I'll never permit you to use it. I'll rise in my place and plead guilty. Man, I took Kelcey Harrington for good or for bad, for better or for worse; I knew what I was doing when I passed my word to love, cherish, honor, and protect her until death us did part—and I aim to keep my bargain. I'll not have the mother of my son disgraced."

"You old-fashioned idiot! Why, the woman has divorced you and deserted her baby. She's unnatural!"

"She was my wife and she bore me a son."

"Mason, don't be such a Don Quixote—"

"I'd be a coyote to put that girl upon the stand and bully her into admitting something that would ruin her and perhaps put her in San Quentin for conspiracy. I know the temper of that judge and the temper of the men who would compose the jury that would try her. If she should be proved guilty, pitiless cold justice would be her portion. I couldn't stand that, I tell you."

"You love her still?"

"No. But I don't hate her. I understand her. People do the things they're weak enough to do—and if they're weak it isn't their fault. The buck is up to the Almighty in her case!"

"I think it is up to Him in your case. For a decent gentleman you have certainly had a scoundrel's brand run on you."

Mason smiled a cryptic little smile. "Not in the eyes of my friends, Ranger—and the public doesn't matter. The public doesn't know me and never did; when it heard about me it was mildly interested for a few minutes and has since forgotten me. Even the penitentiary is bearable if one's friends remain affectionate and loyal."

"Monica didn't forget you, I'm sure."

"She has always written to me once a week and has sent me books and magazines."

"How much better off you would have been if you had married her."

"And how much worse off you would be now if I had."

"My dear man, you jump to hasty conclusions—"

"If I do I land squarely on them. I have eyes. I am not a fool."

Anthony Garland sat down on the bed beside the sick man. "You love Monica Dale," he charged.

Mason nodded. "And, strangely enough, I never realized it until the gates of San Quentin had closed upon me. My poor wife was wiser than I—she knew me better than I knew myself. So did Monica, although after I married Kelcey, in a moment of infatuation, I saw very little of Monica. She wasn't welcome at Honey Valley." He sighed and closed his eyes. "Oh, Lord, what a pitiful mix-up! Monica and I have always been such friends. She was never the clinging-vine type. She has a lot of pride, scorns sympathy—"

"No, she doesn't. No woman ever does. You were content with a fine friendship, waiting, perhaps, until your economic situation would be more secure—and the golden moment passed. In contrasting her with Kelcey you realized you had traded pure gold for brass."

"Well, at any rate, I missed my chance, if I ever had one, which I doubt. Monica doesn't want to marry a mountain man. She wants to escape—to see life—to know all about the other side of the picture. I knew that. Perhaps if I had not—if I hadn't known that this was my country and that here I would live and die, I might have dared to dream . . . I didn't care to appear selfish. Everybody is entitled to have his or her desires fulfilled. . . . . Well, the girl loves you, Garland. You're the man from outside. She's fine and loyal and wonderful. Be tender and kind to her, friend."

Garland nodded silently. "I had no business to let her know. I'm just a poor devil of a ranger, making sufficient money for my simple needs," he murmured. "I do not thrive in cities and I haven't a dollar in the world to make another start in the law. No, it wasn't kind of me to wear my heart on my sleeve and let her see it."

"Don't be a fool," Mason warned him sharply. "Monica isn't mercenary. She'll follow where her heart leads and let what will come, come. Don't give her up. You're a decent man, or I'm no judge of men—and I think I am. I want a decent man for Monica. That girl was born to be happy, to bear strong, fine children and enrich the world. I know.

"After one has been herded for two years with the sweepings of humanity, he begins to realize why they are sweepings. They haven't been bred right. Monica comes of pioneer stock, the hardy and adventurous, the idealists, the builders.

"It was the men and women close to the soil who settled California, and of them it has been said that the cowards never started and the weaklings died on the way. We hill-folk are of Nature's selective breeding. We haven't known ease; we have not wilted like hothouse flowers; we've been healthy and, living as we do, close to the soil, we think healthy thoughts.

"I know now that I should not have married Kelcey Harrington. She comes from a long line of decayed gentlemen; they've run to seed; their line will die with her generation. Nature takes toll of the weak and inefficient, Garland, but she heaps her gifts on the strong, the clean, the brave—and money doesn't enter into her calculations."

Jubilee's Pardner

* * *

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Today was Wednesday, and I had slept with the hall window that I let Jubilee down out of and pull him up through by the rope in his teeth, wide open and nothing had happened.

When I let Jubilee down this morning it wasn't even coolish, hardly, and when I had finished milking the cows and had fed my face and snuck two pancakes and a piece of bacon out to Jubilee and was going to skin out my mother hollered to me. When I went in she made me roll up all the rugs and carry them out in the yard and put them on the clothes line. They were heavy for a fella of my size, and when I had got them on it began to rain and I had to almost break my neck getting them in the house before they got wet, and then the rain stopped and my mother said it was only a passing cloud and I might take them out again.

By that time I was tired and sweaty and full of dust, and my mother made me wash my face before I started for school. The whole bunch had already went, except Younise and Feeble and Maggie, the mut which had got fascinated on her leg so it wouldn't show. My grandfather says he bets fascinations are soon going to be chased out into the open no matter where they are hid. He said some people not so very far away ought to have their fascinations and their legs too where they wouldn't show. My ant said old men were the worst of all for looking at legs, and he said no kind of a man liked to look at broomsticks. So then the bunch was waiting and I skun out and we went over to where the house was burnt and the cistern is half full of water, and as soon as mudturkles come out we are going to gather up all there are and get a cistern full of them.

When we met the Lost Bag of Tripe he had a cigar in his mouth and it had a gold band around it, and I asted him to let me hold it in my mouth when I went in the schoolyard and make the teachers open their eyes. He said all right, and he took it out of his mouth and just as he was going to put the end of it in my mouth I had my face wide open he squoze on it and squirted my mouth full of vinegar. It was a rubber cigar, the dirty crook. I ran him all the way home and up onto his porch, but I didn't catch him, and I had to hike back to school to keep from being late. It was a good trick, and I was a sucker to bite on it.

When school let out I went home and my grandfather had been beating rugs and he was carrying an armful into the house and stepped on a bar of soap my mother had left on the back step and almost bit his whiskers off. I don't like housecleaning.

On The Remnant Counter

WITH THE CLERK

NO REASON

THIS 'kolyum' is being started for no good reason whatever—other than to air the suppressed feelings, negligible ideas and breezy notes that come to its writer. Like circus staff today, it may be that tomorrow, or something else—anything, as a friend who once ran a crossroads store in the "beyond" of Idaho used to say of his merchandise, anything from baby ribbon to barbed wire.

CIRCUSES

SITTING here and wondering when that circus advance man will be in breeds a mess of thoughts on the big tops. Ohio seems to be a magnet for them this spring. And that might also be a fair indication of business conditions in the Buckeye State. For circuses, like other businesses, do not tread territory in which there is no loose money.

Marion gets Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus late in the month. The Hagenbeck-Wallace show opened this season in Public Hall at Cleveland, playing eight days. Then moved on to Cincinnati for a trio of days. Around and about and then here.

Sells-Floto is busy in Ohio, too, setting its rings and stages in Columbus Thursday.

Sparks Circus, than which at times no better have we seen at times, is in Akron today and Mansfield Thursday.

Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Wild West is due soon in Columbus. John Robinson's Circus is in the neighborhood of Steubenville these days.

And early this morning the caravan of the Gentry Brothers Circus—once a dog and pony show and now elevated to higher rank—trailed across our town via the Pennsy—we imagine and too lazy to verify—going from Delaware where it showed yesterday to Bucyrus where it lifts its tents today. Gentry Brother is owned by the same organization which last season brought us the Walter L. Main Circus. A few years ago it was Gentry Brothers-Patterson Circus and it ran into financial difficulties, with a southern bank attempting to pull it out. Later it was sold to King Brothers, the present owners.

And, by the way, a recent review of Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus proclaimed its merits. Here last season it was one of the best performances we have seen.

LISTENING IN

TEN years ago we—meaning John Public and Co.—were avidly reading the papers for news of Yankee victories over the Germans. And, last night we—meaning us—sat back and listened to our loud speaker give forth the tremendous reception the City of New York paid to two Germans and an Irishman, Baron Von Huenefeld, Captain Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice. Radio reception last night was excellent and every word of the speeches was clear as the proverbial clang of a bell. All except the short talks of the baron and the captain who strove earnestly but some times vainly to broadcast their words of appreciation.

Mayor Jimmy Walker was in his glory. And full of wisecrax. Mayor Jimmy looked at his watch and as the hour neared midnight said to the three guests: "I understand the train leaves at 12:35 a. m. Well, you won't need to worry. They won't expect you to be on time. They know you're with me."

Thirty-five hundred crowded into the ballroom of the Commodore Hotel, the radio announcer said, for the event. One sidelight revealed by the mayor was that when Koehl entered the Bremen he was unable to speak one word of English. Fitzmaurice, however, coached him as they soared hours over the Atlantic.

"Now," said Jimmy, "he has completely mastered English—that is more so than any native of New York has mastered German."

DOWN IN N. C.

AND, to finish the day. And getting back to Marion. There is a Marion Star in Marion, North Carolina, the current issue of Editor and Publisher reveals. It is a weekly paper and produced entirely by three girls who conduct their business independent of the advice of men. The three are sisters. One is editor and also can operate a linotype machine or make mechanical adjustments. Another is business manager, reporter and advertising solicitor, along with the ability to operate machines. She also handles the burden of the job plant department. The third is a linotype operator. The gross receipts of The Star will reach $15,000 annually, it is said.

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Important Revelations Hang on Madge's Ability

LILLIAN looked at me oddly as I asked her if she supposed the Transaranians in the shack could have seen my father and Mr. Drake in their furtive arrival at the farmhouse. I understood the look, for I had seen it before when she was approaching the crisis of some secret [illegible] investigation.

It meant that she was debating how much to tell me. From long experience I knew that her reticence at such times was not due to any distrust of either my ability or my [illegible] [illegible]

Larence or the farmhouse. You see, you have three guesses. Take your choice."

With an effort I swallowed my chagrin at her non-committal attitude.

"I'll take the first hypothesis," I said. "I'd rather believe they were asleep."

She made an impetuous movement toward me, took my chin firmly in her cupped palm and turned her face up to mine.

"I know I'm an awful thing," she said, "but honestly, Madge, you shall know every last detail of this business in a day or two. If I should tell you now what Allen confided to me while we were getting that car safely hidden, it might seriously complicate your translation of that code. And I want you absolutely open-minded with no previous ideas of what it may contain. Then if it clicks afterward, we've got the whole thing just where we want it."

"There are two things I can tell you, however. One is that your father and Allen have just completed a hair-raising journey. In disguises which completely transformed them, they have spent months in a country which is better not to name aloud. They escaped with their lives with only an inch or so to spare and were trailed to this country by people clever enough to figure out the second and even the third transformations which Allen's genius at make-up made in their appearance.

"But at last, with the aid of a man sent to them from Washington, they were able to throw off their trackers, resume their own personalities and start for home. It is of the utmost importance, however, that they do not appear here until a week, at least, has passed, for they wish no possible comparison with the time of their arrival here and the hour of their disappearance from the city where they eluded their trackers. Later they will drive into the yard and we will give them an effusive and ostentatious welcome home. In the meantime, mum's the word, and Junior must not know they are here. Katie will be all right if she realizes your father's life may depend upon her silence. It's only when there's nothing at stake that her tongue runs away with her."

I nodded my agreement with her statement, and she hurried on:

"It's a big thing they're after, Madge, and in some ways it fits in—"

She broke off and clapped me on the shoulder.

"I'm banking on that code, Madge. I know you're going to get it, and that pronto. But you can't do anything more tonight, or rather this morning. You have been working all night, haven't you?"

"Nearly," I returned, feeling at last the effects of my vigil.

"Then tumble into bed now. I'll give orders that you are not to be called until you awaken yourself. I will see to everything. Remember that more than you think may stand or fall with the deciphering of that code."
